

About PCA Dance

PCA Dance seeks to identify and train both the young artists who are professionally oriented and those who have the potential to dance, but who may never have had the opportunity to study in a professional setting. The program helps students to develop an in-depth appreciation of the arts, as well as the physical and mental discipline essential to a successful career in any field. In addition, PCA dance students may compete at regional competitions, including the Youth American Grand Prix. During their high school career, all dance students must earn a minimum of six credits in the Dance Department.
